
Centre for Language Studies
National University of Singapore

The National University of Singapore (NUS) invites applications for the following full-time faculty position at the Centre for Language Studies (CLS):

Lecturer for Spanish Language
Starting June 2015

CLS, a centre under the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, currently teaches twelve languages, including French, mainly to undergraduate students at elementary, intermediate and advanced levels.

Applicants for the position should have at least a relevant Master's degree and three years' teaching experience at a tertiary institution. Skills/knowledge/experience in applying IT to language teaching and/or research in Spanish as a foreign language will be an advantage. The duties of a lecturer involve teaching, curriculum development and design, as well as coordinating the programme and some administrative tasks at the centre level.

Appointment will be made on a three-year-contract basis, renewable subject to mutual agreement. Remuneration will be commensurate with qualifications and experience, and leave and medical benefits will be provided in accordance with the University's standard. For expatriate staff, relocation and housing benefits will also be provided. Applicants may contact the Centre if they have any queries.

Those interested in the position should submit by email a cover letter, a CV, a brief teaching philosophy statement, copies of educational certificates, samples of self-developed materials, and preferably a link to video recording of their teaching. They are also to submit the names and contact information (postal and e-mail addresses, and fax numbers) of three academic referees. Applications are to be made in English and sent to:
